Installing NetWare 5.1 SP 8 Using the Installation and Server Management CD

 NOTE: If your system supports Hyper-Threading, see "Support for Hyper-Threading Technology" on page 8.

This section contains the procedure for installing NetWare 5.1 SP 8 using the Installation and Server Management CD. Dell recommends that you use the Installation and Server Management CD to install your operating system because it contains the latest supported drivers that you need for a stable and supported operating environment. Using this bootable CD simplifies the setup of your system by automating system configuration and software installation tasks. For more information, see the Installation and Server Management CD or the Dell Support website at support.dell.com.

As you complete this procedure, all of the installation and configuration activity occurs in a window within the Dell OpenManage Server Assistant main window.

To install NetWare 5.1 SP 8 using the Installation and Server Management CD, perform the following steps:

- 1 Turn on your system and immediately insert the Installation and Server Management CD into the CD drive.
The Welcome to Dell OpenManage Server Assistant window appears.
- 2 Select the language in the left section of the window, and click Click here for server setup in the right section of the window.
The Set the Date and Time window appears.
- 3 Set the date, time, and time zone and click Continue.
The Configure RAID window appears.
- 4 Select your RAID configuration settings, type the number or slide the bar to set the RAID virtual disk size, and click Continue.
The Select Operating System to Install window appears.
- 5 Click Novell NetWare 5.1 and then click Continue.

 NOTE: This step assumes that you are performing a new installation of NetWare 5.1.
The Configure Hard Drive window appears.
