Movie Info: The American Pie series is a collection of films centered on the lives of four high school students who lived in various towns in Northern California and Minnesota. The Tucson Police Department began its Fourth of July event, the Arizona Wing Shooting, on Saturday night with a dinner at the National Western Complex on the University of Arizona campus. A partial shutdown of the shooting range on Monday had them canceling their traditional "guns with wings" display. Instead, the Tucson Police Department said it would have an "all meat dinner" for officers with a portion of the proceeds to be donated to the Boys and Girls Club. On Tuesday, Tucson Police said they'd open the range and wing display on Wednesday, July 4. "The TPD's presentation will be back on as scheduled, and there will be a display of firearms," Sgt. Mark Barela said. "All the proceeds will go to the Boys & Girls Club and the back-pocket fund that goes towards it." The Tucson Police Department invites everyone to come out to the National Western Complex on July 4 for the "all meat dinner" with the proceeds going to the Boys and Girls Club. pic.twitter.com/R2nVoYg2LX — Tucson Police (@TPDPPIO) July 2, 2019 The Arizona Wing Shooting has been a tradition for more than 20 years, Barela said. "It's a long tradition here," he said. "We started it out of the back pocket of the police department, and over the years, it's grown and gotten more popular." But in the last year, many local schools and sports teams have taken to going to other vendors' events for their Fourth of July celebrations. According to the Tucson Police Department, the Arizona Wing Shooting begins at 11 a.m. and ends at 5 p.m. for those who plan on enjoying a day of shooting. The Tucson Police Department will host an "all meat dinner" 3e33713323
