Catalog of Deals is a great tool for any shopper looking for a bargain or a special offer. Catlin Oilfield Survey Tools Catlin Oilfield Survey Tools is an app that enables the user to identify the composition of the oil and gas contained in the well, before the well is drilled. With this app, it is possible to determine the type of fluid present in the reservoir and the ability of the reservoir to produce oil. Components The app offers a series of components that allow you to identify the most important parameters, to determine whether the reservoir has a chance of producing oil. Name The name of the well is provided by the tool. Fluid The fluid type enables you to determine the composition of the fluid contained in the reservoir. Percolation This component enables you to check whether the reservoir is able to sustain the pressure required to carry out the well. The tool also lets you determine the permeability of the reservoir and its pore volume. Plug thickness This component provides you with information on the viscosity of the oil in the reservoir. Production quality The quality of the production is determined by the fluid type. Scour This component measures the sand content of the oil. It is an indicator of the amount of sand that may clog the production equipment. Determine whether to drill Based on the results of the calculations, the tool informs you whether the reservoir may produce oil. Summary This app is a tool that enables you to identify the content of the reservoir and its ability to produce oil before drilling a well.
