KEYMACRO is an instrument that solves the problem that prevents your program from connecting to your USB devices, printers, modems and others. This utility will let you manage your USB devices directly in the registry. In a matter of minutes, you will be able to detect all of the problems that prevent you from using your USB devices. KEYMACRO is really easy to use, as it does not require any special knowledge or special skills. It is simple and straightforward, so you won't have any problems navigating through its features and settings. The app is a complete repair tool, because it checks all of the files that are stored on your system and it also checks the registry in order to detect whether you have any issues that prevent you from connecting to your USB devices. KEYMACRO does not replace the need for professional software, because it is a diagnostic tool and does not repair any problem. Although the utility is easy to use, you can also read the manual that is available in the program's support section. The application supports every Windows operating system, so you can download and install it for free. Free Download Dumb - Print Scheduler is a simple application that allows you to schedule printing jobs from the desktop. This application is quite simple and does not require any special knowledge or skills. It is designed to help the users to schedule their printing jobs and to keep the printing times consistent. This utility is designed to work only with the printer that is connected to the computer that you are using. When you launch the application, you can decide whether you want to use the default settings or to enter the job details manually. In order to schedule the job you need to choose between the following options: • Job Name: You can enter the name of the job that you want to schedule. It can be a single file or a collection of files. The name is used by the system for the scheduled job. • Date and Time: You can choose between three different options to create the scheduled job: o You can choose to set the job date and time based on the current system time. o You can choose to set the job to print at a specific time or to automatically start at a specific time. o You can even schedule the job to start on the next day or on the specified day. • Print Queue: You can use the default settings to print the job from the list of printing jobs in the default print queue.
