What's New in the Sticky Notes?

Sticky Notes is a small utility that can keep all your thoughts, ideas and reminders on the computer desktop. You may create as many notes as you want and place them all over the screen. The program comes with an extensive menu of actions that you can choose in order to customize each note. For instance, it lets you edit the title, choose a font and color for the text. Furthermore, each item may have an alarm added. These can be set to ring once or on a certain pattern (daily, weekly or monthly). If you choose one of the latter options, you can also define an end date to the recurrences. The notes may be assigned a priority that can be viewed as a colored flag in the upper area of the frame. Also, the background color of each note may be modified from the default yellow to blue, green, pink, white or a custom shade. All items can be saved and the contents may be exported to file as TXT or RTF. The program comes with several rich text editing options. You can modify the font style, size and color, use one of the emphasis options (bold, italic, underline and strikethrough) or create paragraph and lists. The bottom line is that Sticky Note is a nice tool that can be used every day. Inexperienced users should have no problems in figuring out how to work with this app. What's new in this version: -----
