And it reads: "M2_HOME=/usr/local/apache-maven-3.1.1" Command: /usr/local/bin/mvn --version I am trying to run Jenkins over an Amazon EC2 cluster where they have a weird configuration with a maven-slave-agent.jar in the jenkins-slave-agent-common-3.2.4.war. But what appears in the Jenkins console is that it is coming from the master-agent-. When I log into the master host, I am told that it is in /etc/sysconfig/jenkins, /var/lib/jenkins or /usr/local/bin. I have tried restarting jenkins, changing the 'jenkins.M2_HOME' in the job's 'Maven' configuration to reflect these locations with no luck. These two are separate projects and can be built individually with no errors. They run just fine on a single host. When I run the entire build over the cluster, they are building just fine, but the other builds will not build. I've also tried disabling the java executable, no dice. I've tried disabling the logrotate service, no dice. I've tried re-installing jenkins itself, no dice. I've tried the --debug (configured in the job) option, no dice. I tried to eliminate the dependencies for the build, which there are none. I've tried changing the --jvm-options (-Xmx2048m -Djava.net.preferIPv4Stack=true -Djdk.tls.ephemeralDH
