New Version of VB Code Library -
1.6 Programming languages are used to build and define the way in which an end user can interact with an application or machine. Everything is built from the ground up, with no advanced set of tools. However, in order to make it all easier, VB.NET Code Library comes equipped with an abundance of useful code items and a programming environment for enhanced comfort. Quickly get acquainted with its features The application wraps all of its features in an incredibly intuitive interface, especially because of its office suite like design with which most are familiar. What's more, a welcome wizard makes sure you quickly get up and running by taking you through a series of steps, much like a small tutorial. Based on Visual Basic, all of your projects are compatible. You can take advantage of a breathtaking amount of items with pre-written code to enhance your projects. These are found in a side panel, organized in categories you can sort and arrange as you see fit. From Windows forms like drawing, fonts or sound, to miscellaneous configurations such as database, math or time and date, you are sure to find an item that suits your needs. You are able to create new documents and populate it with lines of code you can either easily copy from the existing database or write down from scratch. Enhanced security with a password generator The application comes bundled with a few more tools to enhance the way you work. Screenshots can be taken using multiple tools either for the whole screen or specific sections. A password generator gives you the possibility to keep documents safe using strong algorithms to provide either a random security key, or customized to include only certain characters. A few last words All things considered, VB.NET is worth keeping installed on your system, especially in the case of coding enthusiasts. The rich and constantly updating database significantly enhances your work, while the intuitive interface and welcome wizard make sure you can start your project as soon as the application launches.
