Roland Lundström has retired from the company he founded, and at just 49 years of age. As founder and CEO of Thule Group, the world's leading independent bicycle and backpacking equipment manufacturer, Lundström was tasked with a daunting task: to grow the business while offering customers and employees a fresh and new approach to the company. "I wanted to make sure that Thule would remain ahead of the competition and deliver products that were superior to any other bike and backpacking equipment on the market," says Lundström. "I also wanted to ensure that the company would continue to be a solid source of employment for all of our employees worldwide." Lundström's strategy of delivering "more with less" to customers has been met with success. As a result of this success, Thule Group is now the world's leading independent bicycle and backpacking equipment manufacturer, delivering best-in-class products, exceptional service and a healthy outlook. "We saw it as a way to be more responsive to customers and their needs, and more importantly, to do so in a way that was sustainable for the company and employees

Dose Escalation of Fluoropyrimidines in Palliative Care. The National Comprehensive Cancer Network guidelines for solid tumors do not have specific recommendations on dose escalation of fluoropyrimidines for the treatment of unresectable, progressive disease. In this study, dose escalation of 5-fluorouracil (5-FU) and capecitabine was conducted in an elderly patient population with various advanced solid tumors. Patients with incurable, progressive cancer with no other standard therapy options were enrolled. The primary endpoints were safety and tolerability. Additional secondary endpoints included clinical response, overall survival, and progression-free survival (PFS). One hundred and four patients with a median age of 71 years were enrolled and included in the safety population. The most common diagnoses were gastrointestinal (32.7%) and lung (24.0%) cancers. The median number of cycles was 6.0 (range, 1-20), and the median dose intensity was 120 mg/m²/day (range, 25-280) for 5-FU and 1000 mg/m²/day (range, 200-2600) for capecitabine. A total of 48.1% of patients experienced dose-limiting toxicities and 30.4% of patients had dose-related adverse events. Common dose-limiting toxicities included diarrhea, fatigue, and nausea. No dose-related response was observed for the primary endpoints of clinical response, PFS, and overall survival. The median survival was 11.6 months and the 1-year survival rate was 26.6%. This study suggests that dose escalation of fluoropyrimidines may be feasible in the outpatient setting for treatment of advanced solid tumors, but further studies with more patients and longer follow-up are needed to confirm the findings. I lost some files and I think they are still there, but I don't know for sure. Is there anyway to restore them? I only have one account, but this External hard drive has a second account. - Rod Product Byebye Data Eraser(2)5.0 Bitdefender Total Security 2018 Review Sunday, July 30, 2018 I am happy to have purchased this software and I only wish it was available a few years ago. Thank you. I like these skis a lot - however they do make some peoples knees or knees and hips problems - I have had to have knee replacement and arthritic hip problems and these skis were too big and heavy - I sold them and bought skis with longer tails - these skis are wonderful in the back country and if you dont over-think it and have some balanced boot, great for a beginners ride - if you overdo it, the tail section will start to curl and get back to neutral....the only thing with these skis is that they need a good ski boot, not just any boot - ie Gravis, Arrow, Mad, SPS etc. Very solid ski. Good for the beginner as well. I rode this ski in the back country of BC and in the chutes of Mt. Rainier. It's tough. Very solid on hard packed snow. It handles fine in hard packed powder, just don't over-powder it, as this ski is best used on the hard pack. It likes having a strong boot as well. Last updated on. From the section Football Alex Green is the top scorer for Glasgow Rangers with 18 goals this season Rangers moved two points clear at the top of the Scottish Premiership by scoring two late goals to beat Dundee United. Alex Green's long-range effort and a header from James Tavernier were enough to keep the Light Blues two points ahead of Hearts, who lost 3-1 at Motherwell. Lewis Ferguson had given the visitors a half-time lead with a deflected shot but Green volleyed Rangers level from close range. United captain Kenny Miller then headed home at the death after Rangers failed to clear a corner. The result lifted Dundee United to their first point of the season and promoted Rangers to second, two points behind
