Photoshop is a subscription-based software package that is very expensive (starting at $395/year for basic Adobe Creative Cloud subscription). However, if you are using it for personal projects or just learn a bit about graphics then it is worth paying the investment. Do I need Photoshop? Yes, if you are creating images and videos to sell on websites like Amazon or Pexels, yes you need Photoshop. How do I use Photoshop? To learn Photoshop is much easier than to learn how to use it. I recommend trying free versions first. These are Photoshop Express- a free plugin that works on websites like Pixlr.io GIMP - a free open source alternative to Photoshop. Adobe Lightroom - a simple editor for photos and video. If you want to create images and videos for yourself, and you're not sure about which app to use then try both. The most popular one will likely end up being the one that you end up using the most so you'll become more familiar with it. GIMP is the easiest to use but I prefer Lightroom. How do I get Photoshop? Based on their knowledge of their customers, Selfridges staff took the opportunity to share their feelings of Christmas and it's significance during the holidays. In the Christmas campaign Selfridges collaborated with artists and designers, passing on their deepest meaning and memories of the festive season. For example, Florence Pugh presented playful illustrations of Peter Rabbit for the autumn campaign of the John Lewis brand, illustrated by Louis Erede. A series of different issues of the magazine created an illustration on each one of the most important words that are expressed at Christmas: Noel, Gift, Candle, Love, Presents, Tree. The chosen words were printed on clear vinyl lettering as small stickers. They were then added to tree branches that brought a whole new meaning to the covered branches. The stickers were printed in a thick cardboard for a unique effect. Using the images and writing, the creative team at Selfridges developed an innovative advertising campaign by visualising the depth of their relationship with customers. The autumn campaign of the John Lewis brand also took advantage of its expert knowledge of the impact of the emotional psychology during the festive season. A series of videos expressing different emotions inspired by Christmas brought a fun and festive feeling to the inside-out campaign in collaboration with the Marc Jacobs brand. One of the most popular codes was the "Like A Day" code inspired by the Marc Jacobs slogan of his Autumn/Winter 2017/18 collection, "Like A Day". We are always looking for new ways to engage with our customers, and taking a seasonal approach, such as the 2018 festive campaign "Like A Day," was a new and inventive way to connect with our customers, as well as a visually rich way to engage with the campaign. Peter Katz is Selfridges' Digital and Social Manager. Before joining Selfridges, Peter was the Creative Director of Shop in the Southbank Centre in London, and at the new brand, Albion Birmingham. He also has experience of creating work for brands such as Nokia, M&S and Adidas, and is currently working on a TV project for Sky TV. Peter holds a master's degree in Interactive Arts from Central Saint Martin's College of Art & Design in London. When Jeff Bezos stepped up to the podium at Recode's Code/Media conference in September, he was the headliner and, having retired in August as CEO of Amazon, was ready to deliver his final note on the
