And it seems it also attracts some of the best and brightest minds in the industry. The company announced that it has hired two new vice presidents of beer and beverage: Mike Jackson will lead the beverage side of the company, while Christie Witteman will lead the beer side. For those that don't know Jackson, he was formerly the chief operating officer and director of business development at Yuengling. He also spent time at Anheuser-Busch and MillerCoors. As for Witteman, she has been in the beer industry for over a decade. She is a partner at the Holland-based Big Rock Brewery, co-owner of the Buffalo McWilliams Cellars winery, and previously served as CEO of Buffalo Thunder Brewing. Part of the reason for the hires is to gain an insider's look at the ever-growing beer market. "We think it is a very exciting area to work in right now," a Buffalo Wild Wings spokesperson said in an email to Beverage Digest. "Both Christie and Mike have lots of experience in the sector and have a unique perspective on beer, the beverage industry and consumer trends." In the announcement, the spokesperson added: "By acquiring and creating these positions, Buffalo Wild Wings is uniquely poised to understand the needs of beer drinkers, beer consumers, and our guests to provide quality products that will satisfy their never-ending search for great value and a quality drinking experience." Buffalo Wild Wings, whose U.S. portfolio includes 25 domestic locations and 26 international locations, will be focusing on specific beers on a menu that includes a mashable stout, an American pale ale, and a house-brewed lager, or "our new regional flavor."
