ADS Revealer is a freeware aimed at showing the presence of ADS in the files stored on your computer. With a simple installation, you'll be able to see the presence of ADS files that you've deleted or never noticed before. The program displays a number of useful tools, allowing you to: - Show the author and title of every file on your computer - Set the number of entries to scan - Export all files to a text or a txt file for further analysis - Also export all the files in the selected folders to a txt file for further analysis. In addition to the useful tools already mentioned, you can even create a shortcut to a Notepad or another text editor, so that you can open the files at any time. If you decide to open one of these files, you'll be prompted to allow the execution of the program, and it will display its contents. You can export the content of all files and folders to a text file for further analysis. Also, you can remove files matching your selection. This program does not install any additional registry entries or change any NTFS settings. Requirements: - Any operating system with NTFS, 7-zip, WinRAR, PdfSplit, WinZip, and 7-Zip available on the computer. - Windows 98 and ME only - Compatible with Windows 7 and XP - 8.3 MB The Alternate Data Streams (ADS) allow you to associate some additional information to the files written on a disc with the NTFS filesystem (New Technology System Rows, available with all the Windows operating systems from Windows NT 3.1, therefore including Windows 2000 and XP). Similar in purpose and functionality to the fork used on Macintosh systems, the streams of alternative data concur to save additional information regarding a given file, for example the author and title of a document, or some other information about graphic files. However, the ADS can also contain pieces of malware code and in fact, various malware creators take advantage of this NTFS characteristic to hide their presence on the infected systems. ADS Revealer scans the selected folders or discs, identifying the ADS and giving the user the possibility to export their content and/or remove them. How to follow the IWF World Governing Council World Championship in Lanzhou, China The recent the 2012 Go Congress passed a resolution to hold a World Go Championship every three years. This year's world championship will be the second IWF World Go Championship. It will be held in Lanzhou, China from 6 to 11 October. I will be visiting the event, and it would be great to get you to join me as I follow the events here. The event will be held in the newly built Yuanlong Stadium, which currently includes a stadium, an exhibition hall, and a multi-venue arena. I had a tour of the site on Tuesday. We were also invited to a local Chinese taekwondo demonstration show, which was held in a smaller venue inside the stadium. The building is newly built and has been designed to highlight the majestic and spectacular location. It was constructed by a team of engineers working under a newly established oversight committee formed by the authorities in the area. There will be more than 4000 competitors from over 90 countries. The official website for the event can be found here.
