download Inspection
devices are used for the inspection of
objects or specimens for defects. In

---

particular, defects on complex objects or assemblies (for example, aircrafts, ships, wind turbines, bridges, etc.) can be detected by a camera of an

---

inspection device
which takes images
of the objects or assemblies. The quality of the images
can be monitored in order to identify and eliminate errors in

the design or a manufacturing
process of the object
or the assembly, or so as to detect and
correct errors (e.g.
missing components)
that were introduced

during the
manufacturing
process or any other
process and which cannot be detected
by an operator of the
inspection device.
When the inspection

---

device is used for
the inspection of
objects or assemblies, an operator of the
inspection device
generally manipulates the

object or assembly
with the inspection
device in order to obtain the images.

For example, the
operator can trigger
different maneuvers
that cause the object

to rotate or tilt. The manipulations performed by the operator are generally based on a manual execution of a visual inspection of the object or assembly, which can be demanding and time consuming for the operator. Also, as a result of the manual execution of the inspection of the object or the assembly by the operator, only the potential errors that can be detected by the operator are inspected, while potentially other potential errors are not detected.

---

---

Further, when the potential errors are inspected, the operator may miss the errors or at least get a false impression regarding the errors (e.g. due to fatigue, lack of experience, lack of training, etc.). The embodiments described below are not limited to implementations, or

---

embodiments,
described
above. PrestaShop
