Peer Review. InventoryBuilder Cracked Version is a complete database program for all your inventory needs from both a personal and business perspective. A database program would be highly beneficial for someone who needs to track a small office inventory, as well as a large scale business inventory. You can use the data to aid in keeping track of money, inventory, and your clients. InventoryBuilder has a built-in GPS function to locate it in Google maps when printing your item. That means you can click on your item and on the print preview screen you can see where it is located and where it is headed to.

InventoryBuilder Reviews: "So far I've used the inventory module in InventoryBuilder for over a month now, I've received the product before it was released and I'm very impressed. I've been using it for home inventory management. I chose to buy this product over other inventory management programs because it was the first one to offer the ability to print reports directly from the program. It is the first inventory management program I've used with or without the work order type. I also like the calendar feature that allows you to setup specific dates for inventory purposes. I use it to keep track of all of my possessions. I also like the fact that you can use it to track your day to day inventory management needs as well as large scale, long term projects and items. I use it for the same reasons I would use a paper system or excel spreadsheet. I like the ability to do this with the work order type. Each item is assigned a number so that you can later pull a report and see the work order and its status. This feature works very well. I also like the inventory list search. I can filter through my items by location and then work my way up through the levels of organization. I have to say that I would like to see more column options in each tab. I would like to be able to add more detail. I could go on and on, but that would be a completely different review.
