Disconnect PPPoE Connections Manage Modem PPPoE connections and disconnect them automatically when the computer is turned off, so you don't have to disconnect them on your own when the computer is shut down. Ideal for home, office or small business. PPPoE stands for Point to Point Protocol over Ethernet (commonly referred to as Ethernet Point to Point Protocol). It is a method for providing dial-up Internet access to users through a home or small office network over ordinary Ethernet cabling. It enables users to connect to the Internet without requiring a POTS (Plain Old Telephone Service) telephone line. PPPoE was originally developed by Cisco Systems, and is now marketed by them and several other companies. PPPoE is not a point-to-point protocol, but uses the Point-to-Point Protocol over Ethernet (PPPoE) for initiating the connection. The PPPoE connection is established by the PPPoE server, after which the PPPoE client (PC or modem) connects to the Internet through the server. Upon being disconnected, the session is terminated automatically. Reminder: Disconnect the computer from the modem, without first powering off the computer, you'll not be able to reconnect. Connect PPPoE Adapters Restart the modem Stop the modem Power off the modem When the modem is powered off, it will be disconnected from the computer. It will not be able to reconnect after being powered on again. You will also be unable to start the modem, if it is not restarted immediately after being powered off. The PPPoE connection is established through the user's browser. The modem is connected to the computer using a network card, usually through a network cable. As such, the modem should be connected to the computer's network card. What's New In?

□ The main functionality of this utility is dragging buttons from the "New Button" window to the "Currently Used" area of the taskbar. □ By using this functionality you can relocate all your buttons and even hide them. □ The hide button is especially useful for those who think that taskbar buttons make the taskbar look cluttered and complicated. □ When the taskbar is not located in the standard bottom area of the screen, the "New Button" window doesn't work. □ The program window doesn't show in Vista. □ The program window doesn't show in Windows 7 if the taskbar is located in the standard bottom area of the screen. □ The program window doesn't show in Windows 8. How to install and use: ● You can install the program by using the "No Add/Remove Programs" Windows control panel. ● For the purpose of this tutorial, we will show you how to use an executable file. ● Just download the program and extract the content to the "C:\Program Files\Taskbar Button Manager" folder (this is where all files of the program will be installed) and the "C:\Program Files\Taskbar Button Manager\res" folder (where icons are stored). ● Run the program. ● If you are using 32-bit Windows, go to "C:\Program Files\Taskbar Button Manager\res\32", if using 64-bit Windows, select the "64" folder. ● On "New Button" window click on the "My Button" button. ● Hold down left mouse button on the button you want to move and drag it to the "Currently Used" area of the taskbar. ● When you are finished move the button to the desired area of the taskbar and drop it there. Program Details: □ The program consists of 4 steps: 1) Start 2) New Button 3) Hide button 4) Move button The first step is the start. □ With the start button you can start the program or set up the program window. If you choose to start the program with the start button, you will be greeted with the "New Button" and the "Hide button" window where you can decide how to arrange your taskbar buttons. □ If you click on the "New Button" button, the program will start and you will
