

One of the notable new elements includes "Team Speed", which regulates the players' running speed when playing on the same field. The faster the match progresses, the more the players' running speed increases. This feature gives more importance to fast-paced matches and provides more variety throughout the game. Even on certain player-controlled teams, the players' speed is regulated to suit their current role. To speed up the FUT trial period to ensure the best gameplay experience from the beginning, the game is being offered in a limited supply for PC via digital download from the EA PLAY store, Steam, Origin and PlayStation Network. Game players will be able to check out the game's modes, functionality and improvements when the game launches on September 23.
