(2) sports: I would recommend things that end with a loser and winner, not just exercising, though climbing isnt quite either and is worthwhile. This racket game is the best sport, fwiw, but you probably dont live near a court, so youll have to content yourself with a second-best option (of which there are many). Id still recommend other forms of hitting balls with sticks (regular tennis, squash, racketball, etc). During the spring of 2009, hundreds of angry Polish peasants, known as Solidarity members, attacked the government headquarters at the Gdańsk Shipyard in Gdańsk. They smashed windows and worked with what they found inside, destroying desks and phones. Days later, to curb the unrest, the Gdansk government sent policemen, also known as the Polish secret police, in to Gdańsk to initiate the crackdown. On the night of March 10, the Polish police raided the Gdańsk Shipyard. They arrested and jailed Solidarity leaders. Later, at least five of the imprisoned activists were found hanged. On April 18, the Gdansk government issued an official report, sating, "The use of force in dealing with the crisis was necessary and legally justified."
